

The Iranian filmmaker Mohammad Rasoulof, Un Certain Regard Award for his movie A Man of Integrity has been forbidden to work and travel since September 2017.

The 23rd of July, he was sentenced to one year of prison, followed by two years without being able to undertake any social or political activity.

Mohammad Rasoulof is an artist. It is absurd to accuse him of being a “national security threat” when his sole weapon is his palette of shadows and light.

The International Confederation of Art Cinemas (CICAÉ) and the French Association of Art Cinemas (AFCAE) join the distributor ARP Selection and the multiple voices worldwide to claim the immediate cancellation of Mohammad Rasoulof's sentences.
